First Supplemental Information Disclosure Statement

Commissioner for Patents
Washington, D.C. 20231

Sir:

Listed on accompanying Form PTO-1449 are documents that may be considered material to the examination of this application, in compliance with the duty of disclosure requirements of 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.56, 1.97 and 1.98.

In the examination of the claims of the parent application (Ser. No. 09/439,923), there was only one rejection based on prior art: a 35 U.S.C. §103 rejection of the claims over WO 93/10244. In that application, claims directed to a purified human recombinant  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase having a purity of greater than about 99% have been allowed. In the Notice of Allowability, dated March 21, 2002, the Examiner states:

"... Examiner could not find a reference that either teaches a 99% pure recombinant alpha-L-iduronidase enzyme or even makes it obvious for one skilled in the art to make a 99% pure recombinant alpha-L-iduronidase. Most references in the art teach either pure or "high purity" alpha-L-iduronidase without specifying a per cent purity."

Applicant respectfully submits that the references submitted in the attached Form PTO-1449 do not affect the patentability of the claims in this present application and believes the references are cumulative to those already of record in this and the '923 application. The references cited herein are being submitted for the sake of completeness of the record in this application file. For example, U.S. Patent Nos. 6,149,909 and 6,238,662 B1 Scott, et al., are derived from PCT WO 93/10244 to Scott, et al. (of record), and are essentially identical in the respective disclosures. Also, Scott, et al., "Human  $\alpha$ -L-Iduronidase: cDNA Isolation and Expression", Proc. Natl. Acad. Sci. USA, Vol. 88, pp. 9695-9699 (1991) contains essentially the same disclosure as Scott, et al., WO 93/10244. WO 97/10353 discloses the production of  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase in a plant expression system. Scott, et al., "Multiple Polymorphisms Within the  $\alpha$ -L-Iduronidase Gene (IDUA): Implications for a Role in Modification of MPS-I Disease Phenotype", Hum. Mol. Genet. Vol. 2, No. 9, pp. 1471-1473 (1993) disclose the polymorphism of the IDUA gene, but do not disclose purifying  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase. Kakkis, et al., "Long-Term and High-Dose Trials of Enzyme Replacement Therapy in the Canine Model of Mucopolysaccharidosis I", Biochem. Mol. Med. Vol. 58, No. 2, pp. 156-167 (1996) disclose using recombinant human  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase to treat dogs affected with MPS I. Neufeld, et al., "The Mucopolysaccharidoses", The Metabolic Basis of Inherited Disease, McGraw Hill, New York, pp. 1565-1587 (1989) provide an overview of mucopolysaccharidoses and their biochemical basis. Rome, et al., " $\alpha$ -L-Iduronidase for Human Kidney" Methods in Enzymology, Vol. 83, pp. 578-582 (1982) disclose the purification of  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase from human kidney to 80% purity. Schuchman, et al., "Human  $\alpha$ -L-Iduronidase: Purification and Properties of the High Uptake (Higher Molecular Weight) and the Low Uptake (Processed) Forms", J. Bio. Chem., Vol. 259, No. 5, pp. 3132-3140 (1984) disclose the purification of  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase from human lung, but does not disclose purifying it to a purity of 99% or more. Stoltzfus, et al., "Mucopolysaccharidosis I: cloning and characterization of cDNA encoding canine  $\alpha$ -L-Iduronidase", Am. J. Hum. Genet., Vol. 47, No. 3, p. A167, (1990) is an abstract that discloses purification of canine  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase, and contains essentially the same disclosure of Stoltzfus, et al. ("Cloning and Characterization of cDNA Encoding Canine  $\alpha$ -L-Iduronidase," J. Biol. Chem., Vol. 267, pp. 6570-6575 (1992)) of record. None of the above identified references teach or suggest either (1) purified human recombinant  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase having a purity of greater than about 99%, or (2) that purified human recombinant  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase having a purity of greater than about 99% has an advantage in treating subjects suffering from a disease caused by a deficiency of  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase.

Therefore, Applicant contends that, in light of the allowability of the claims directed to a purified human recombinant  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase having a purity of greater than about 99% (in the parent application, Ser. No. 09/439,923), the present claims (which include the limitation of "a recombinant  $\alpha$ -L-iduronidase enzyme or biologically active fragments or mutant thereof with a purity of equal to or greater than 99%") are also patentable over the prior art.

Where the publication date of a listed document does not provide a month of publication, the year of publication of the listed document is sufficiently earlier than the effective U.S. filing date and any foreign priority date so that the month of publication is not in issue. Applicant has listed publication dates on the attached PTO-1449 based on information presently available to the undersigned. However, the listed publication dates should not be construed as an admission that the information was actually published on the date indicated.

Applicant reserves the right to establish the patentability of the claimed invention over any of the information provided herewith, and/or to prove that this information may not be prior art, and/or to prove that this information may not be enabling for the teachings purportedly offered.

This statement should not be construed as a representation that a search has been made, or that information more material to the examination of the present patent application does not exist. The Examiner is specifically requested not to rely solely on the material submitted herewith. It is further understood that the Examiner will consider information that had been cited by or submitted to the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office in a prior application relied on under 35 U.S.C. § 120. 1138 OG 37, 38 (May 19, 1992).
